This is an introductory workshop for those feeling trapped in their daily reality ran by “survival”. Introductory meaning... an insight into the traps installed in your mind on an individual level

This is an introductory workshop for those feeling trapped in their daily reality ran by “survival”. Introductory meaning... an insight into the traps installed in your mind on an individual level. It’s an opportunity to shed light on that which seems to cement you to that feeling of being “stuck”. That feeling is most often felt in ones job, career, relationships, residence and spiritual awareness.

As always my approach to self-discovery is outside the norm. I don’t indulge in the norm, but what I hope to share is the freedom which lies in one’s ability to step outside the box. The norm is filled with predictabilities. It is why government, education and religion encourage conformity...conformity is predictability. Unraveling the mystery to “yourself” lies in the “zone” of unpredictability and non conformity. This workshop is geared towards you releasing yourself and giving yourself permission to spread your wings and fly without the fear of loss or being disbanded, ridiculed or rejected. Your freedom is tied into your perception.
